LURE OF WOMAN LEADS BOY TO ROB FOSTER FATHER

Albert Williams, 17, Held for Theft from Foster-father of $500 Which Is Spent on "Gay Life"

OLDER WOMAN BLAMED FOR DEED

Mrs. Anna Snyder Arrested with Youth Has Much of the Money He Stole

Led astray by a woman many years his senior, who taught him the pleasures of a Christian home and loving care. Despite minor delinquencies, his foster-father has shielded and attempted to set him on the straight road, but he is inclined to let the law take its course in the present case. The boy broke down when arrested and confessed the whole story to the police.

Arrested After "Party"

The youth and his tutor were arrested by the police yesterday as they returned from a roadhouse party which began Friday afternoon. The boy had about eight dollars. The woman had $150 on her person when searched, and the police found her handbag, which she had thrown away when arrested, with $50 more.

Albert was adopted at the age of three years. For fourteen years he has had the benefits of a Christian home and loving care. Despite minor delinquencies, his foster-father has shielded and attempted to set him on the straight road, but he is inclined to let the law take its course in the present case. The boy broke down when arrested and confessed the whole story to the police.

Girl Tells Story

With the pair when arrested was Lucinda Miller, a pretty girl of twenty. She told the police the story of Williams' intimacy with Mrs. Snyder as she knew it for the last two months, which she has spent as companion of the woman.

She told of the boy's infatuation for the older woman; how he had constantly sought her company and taken her on expeditions to cafes and roadhouses, and how of late he had brought household articles of value from the home of his foster-father as offerings to her. A dozen silver salad forks and an electric toaster were two of the items the Miller girl mentioned as those Williams brought to Mrs. Snyder.

OROZCO FORFEITS BOND BY FAILING TO BE AT HEARING

EL PASO, Texas, July 12.—General Pascual Orozco's $7,500 bond was declared forfeited today when the former Huertista general failed to appear at the preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner George Oliver to answer a charge of violating neutrality. Four others waived preliminary hearing on the same charge and were held under bond to the federal grand jury which meets here on October 4.

Orozco's whereabouts remain a mystery. General Huerta, detained, was still awaiting the report of the federal grand jury which will meet in San Antonio next December.

State Papers Of All Factions Voice Bosshard Boom For Governor

SENATOR OTTO BOSSHARD

Regardless of whether the pointed suggestions that Senator Otto Bosshard is the none-such peerless and all this and that material for the 1916 republican candidate for governor of Wisconsin have penetrated the senator's skin, that gentleman was the golden soul of silence when approached upon the topic today. However, the state press is not silent, and following the notable achievements in the legislature where, under Senator Bosshard's leadership, culminated this week in the defeat of two more of the big measures calculated to undermine the democratic structure of the past fifteen years, papers hostile and papers friendly credited Otto with a master-stroke and yielded to him the unquestioned progressive leadership.

Two newspapers at the state capital, the Democrat and the State Journal, the former conservative and the latter progressive, yesterday published comment on Senator Bosshard which is typical of the talk going about the state.

From the Madison Democrat (Philipp, democrat).

Bosshard for Governor

Since the meeting of the legislature there has been considerable talk of gubernatorial candidates, but up to the present time it can hardly be said that the discussions have gotten much beyond the conversational point. Now, however, it is said that in preparation for the coming of Senator La Follette it has been decided that Senator Otto Bosshard of La Crosse is to be the candidate of the ultra-progressives for successor to Governor Philipp.

Senator Bosshard is the natural selection for leadership of the La Follette faction in the present situation. In the senate he certainly has proved his quality, both as a debater and parliamentarian. It is said that the support of the La Crosse man is well organized and that when Senator La Follette returns the political pot will start to boil.

From the Madison State Journal (Progressive Republican).

The defeat of the central board of education and the administration agricultural bills yesterday again calls attention to the work of Senators Bosshard and Skogmo in the legislature. All sides now concede that Senator Bosshard looms up as the big figure in the present session of the legislature. He is hard working, able and the best parliamentarian of the legislature. With a reactionary legislature Senator Bosshard and Senator Skogmo with the assistance of Senator Bichler and the progressive democrats have stemmed back the reactionary program and defeated the plan to break down the work done in Wisconsin in the last fifteen years. One of the big surprises of the session was the adoption of the Skogmo substitute for the agricultural appropriation bill. As a result of the work that he has done at this session Senator Bosshard is being mentioned as a candidate for governor while Senator Bichler is being mentioned as a candidate for governor on the democratic ticket.

The administration forces were badly outmaneuvered and outgeneralized yesterday and one of the biggest surprises of the session was sprung when the Skogmo substitute for the administration board of agriculture bill was adopted. This measure was one of the big conservation bills on the governor's program.

"This only goes to show again," said an observer, "that the 'back row' is too much for the administration. Senator Bosshard stands head and shoulders over any member of the senate and as the session grows older he continues to command more influence and respect. He is ably assisted by Senators Skogmo and Bichler and to these men credit is to be given for the failure of the reactionaries to tear down the whole system of government built up in Wisconsin in the past fifteen years."

MEXICAN CAPITAL FALLS TO CARRANZA AFTER LONG SIEGE

Gonzales Immediately Sets About to Establish Organized Government in the City

CARRANZA MAY BE ACCEPTED

Opinion Is That if Victor Tries to Restore Federal Government He Will Be Favored

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Confirmation of the Carranzista capture of Mexico City was received at the state department this afternoon from Consul Silliman at Vera Cruz.

It was the first official announcement of the capital's occupation to reach the government. No details were given.

VERA CRUZ, July 12.—Carranza forces under General Gonzales, captured Mexico City by storm late Saturday. General Gonzales reported to constitutionalist headquarters here that 2,000 Zapatistas were killed and 3,000 made prisoners in the final desperate assault on the capital.

Constitutional government will be established immediately. General Carranza has a full complement of civil officers with him.

Starts Organization

MEXICO CITY, July 12.—General Pablo Gonzales, the capital's newest dictator, today threw himself and staff into the work of organizing a local government for a quick return to normal conditions. Outside of the city, forty railroad trains with 300 carloads of food, were waiting the construction of a temporary bridge to move into the city. Manifestos promising death to all looters, an orderly administration and general amnesty to political and military enemies of the constitutionists were posted throughout the city today.

The retreat of the Zapatistas, which began Saturday and soon developed into a veritable rout, continued today. The capital today was almost confident of peace. General Lopez De Lara, the new military governor of the federal district, issued a decree this morning for the protection of private property.

Washington May Accept Carranza WASHINGTON, July 12.—"It looks like Carranza," was the general verdict here on the Mexican situation today.

Information concerning conditions in Mexico City was not as definite as the government would have liked. It was accepted as a fact that the Carranzistas had occupied the capital. That there would have been rumors of it, if foreigners had suffered, was believed also. Official news was lacking, however. The state department looked for consular advice soon.

General Carranza was thought here today to stand a very fair chance of American recognition.

Two "ifs" were involved: It must appear that the Carranzista capture of Mexico City was a significant victory.

This being the case, Carranza must act wisely, establishing a stable provisional government and taking steps toward a speedy and genuine national election for the establishment of a permanent constitutional regime.

Actual official news of the Mexican capital's capture by the Carranzistas was lacking but the news was unofficially so well authenticated that no one doubted it.

It was pointed out that the city was in Carranzista hands some time before, however, and then passed into those of the Zapatistas. Officials want to be sure that the present occupation will last. If it does last, they said, especially if General Villa's northern campaign proves to be as badly disorganized as reports indicate, Carranza seems likely to occupy a position of such strategic advantage as to entitle him to the recognition he has long desired.

All accounts seemed to show that the Carranzistas were making a good start in Mexico City. They were said to be repairing the railroad and bridges into the city from Vera Cruz and preparing to rush food supplies in as quickly as possible. Preliminary steps had been taken toward an efficient temporary government; warnings had been issued against looting and foreigners had been assured of safety. On the whole the situation was regarded as more hopeful than in many months.

Translation Causes Regret

In official circles here regret was expressed today that the English translation of the German reply does not exactly interpret the spirit of the German text. The general opinion was that the German original was more friendly in tone than the translation sent to America.

Under Secretary Zimmerman commented particularly on the translation of that sentence which in the English version was made to read as follows:

"The imperial government cherishes the definite hope that some way

CLAD IN SUNSET AND B. V. D.'S HE SOUGHT TROUSERS AT WABASHA

All Wabasha pricked up its ears with interest when a stalwart young man walked up its principal street clad only in b. v. d.'s and a palm beach hat.

The young man was in search of trousers, and trousers he got—and got into.

During a canoe trip from Red Wing to La Crosse Harry Leithold and the aforesaid young man suddenly found themselves engaging in an impromptu bath in Lake Pepin. They were near the shore, and both being strong swimmers, they had no difficulty in landing the unsinkable craft and righting it, but the young man's trousers and shoes went the way of the fishes.

Nightfall on the Mississippi grows chilly in this wintry month of July, and as the setting sun "sloped its westerling wheel" over the Minnesota bluffs the storm tossed mariners landed at the wharf at Wabasha.

The cruise down the Mississippi was concluded without further mishap.

Harry told the yarn before leaving for a Chicago convention, and until his return the name of his associate in the sensational shipwreck will not be known.

Divorce Asked By Bride Neglected In The Honeymoon

William Wilkey Lived With His Wife Four Days and Never Came Home Until Morning Each Day She Tells Court

Although William H. Wilkey only lived with his wife, Frances, for four days after they were married, he refused to spend even one evening in her company, she alleges in a suit for divorce started in circuit court today.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilkey were married December 24, 1914, at Winona, according to Mrs. Wilkey, and four days afterwards, "hubby" left and since has never been heard from.

The story of Mrs. Wilkey's short life was told in a complaint made to the court. Mr. Wilkey did not get home until 1 o'clock in the morning on the first night they were married, says Mrs. Wilkey, and the second night it was a little later. The third night, her "better half" failed to show up until daylight, and the following night he left town.

Mrs. Wilkey charges that her husband visited roadhouses with women companions.

WEEK END WELCOME TO PHILIPP FORCES IN LEGISLATURE

Adjourn Until Tonight in Hope They Can Reform Shattered Cohorts and Save Program

THREE BIG BILLS THIS WEEK

Public Welfare, Printing Board and Corrupt Practices Repeal Measures Are Up

MADISON, Wis., July 12.—(Special.)—Foreseeing the complete defeat of the administration program last week, Senator J. H. Bennett and other administration floor leaders welcomed the opportunity to obviate a Saturday session and to adjourn until tonight in the hope that the administration forces might be re-couped in the meantime. Its agricultural consolidation bill completely overturned by the progressives of both parties, through the advancement of a bill for a one-commissioner board instead of a triple affair, and a two-to-one vote piled up against the central board of education, brought the administration to a realization that more time was needed if the remainder of its program was to be saved from complete defeat.

Three Big Ones Up

Three bills of far-reaching effect on the interests of the people of Wisconsin are still pending in the senate, and will be taken up this week. What State Health Officer Harper charges in an attempt to annihilate the public health work in the state is contained in the public welfare bill, against which health organizations, traveling men's associations and citizens generally have protested in petitions to the legislature. This bill seeks to consolidate the work of the state board of health, state board of control, state and food department, and state treasury agent. The State Federation of Labor has characterized the bill as a strange mixture of politics and pseudo

TOMSYNA CARLISLE SEES HER MOTHER FOR FIRST TIME

La Crosse Girl Whose Sight Is Restored Describes Sensations Upon Recovering Sight

IT'S A STRANGE WORLD TO HER

Can Not Immediately Adjust Herself to Dependence Upon a Sense Just Acquired

WILL WORK FOR THE BLIND

Restoration of Vision to Her Means a Life of Service for Those Afflicted as Was She

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 12.—

Miss Tomsyna Carlisle, of La Crosse, Wis., the 21 year old Berkeley student, born blind, whose eyes recently were opened by surgical operation which will completely restore the sight of her left eye, saw her mother for the first time today. She arrived here by steamer from San Francisco and was met at the gang-plank by her mother, Mrs. E. R. Carlisle of Pasadena. The greeting was pathetic. The girl, a direct descendant of Thomas Carlisle, walked slowly down the gang-plank, as though some of the uncertainty of blindness still affected her. She looked at the crowd with a puzzled expression. Then the mother stepped eagerly forward. They met. What they said was whispered.

In Los Angeles Miss Carlisle met friends whom she had known intimately for years. They were all strangers to her until they spoke. Then she knew their voices.

"My mother's beauty is not for my eyes," said Miss Carlisle. "Her features, which I have seen today for the first time since birth, are meaningless to me; I know her no better for having seen her. It is only the tenderness and care flooded over me by her since the days of the cradle which are my mother. The flesh and cloth I have seen today are only flesh and cloth and of their plainness or beauty my undeveloped taste cannot judge. I know the beauty of my mother."

"Supreme faith in the outcome of the operation which brought sight to my left eye—faith which would not permit me to doubt or fear for a moment and which now prompts me to close my eyes whenever fear threatens and proceed fearlessly in the dark, rejoicing and in safety—made the surgeon's skilled scalpel successful. I felt no pain and the operation took but two minutes to perform."

It was a week ago last Friday that Miss Carlisle, keeping the matter a secret even from her family, went to the hospital in San Francisco and underwent the operation, which was not painful or long, but was exceedingly delicate. Then the eyes were bandaged and the waiting time began.

"I went into the ward," she said, "because I couldn't bear to be alone, and there I could babble to my heart's content. Then I read; I read the New Testament through, 'The Virginians,' Stevenson's 'Travels with a Donkey,' some of Whittier's poems, and that helped to pass the time."

Friday, Saturday, Sunday, Monday, Tuesday—this was the long waiting time before this brave girl could know the verdict. Would she see, or would she continue in her blindness? Then the bandages were removed, and sight was there. She begged to have them replaced for it was all so confusing at first. To have known the world only by touch all your life and then, suddenly, to see objects and people.

"How did it seem?" asked a newspaper man. "What did you see first?" "Well," she replied, "I can hardly tell you. It was like a room full of insects, and I was dodging every way to get out of the way of them."

"I did not know that my hands had such long attachments as my fingers proved when I saw them. They asked if I had not felt their length, but that did not bring me the same sensation; and when I held my hand up to the light and saw the light shine red between the fingers, although I knew it before as an actual physical fact, it looked strange to me. You are yet too early for your story," she added, "for I have not fully learned what I see."

"Blindness My Salvation"

"I am glad that I have been blind all these years," she said. "It has meant my salvation. To have been as other girls would have meant that by this time I would have been married. As it is, I have given the best years of my youth to gaining an education and a life interest. I have found the needs of the blind and have fitted myself to minister to them. Not that I object to marriage, but that I feel that marriage should not stand as a bar to woman's usefulness in relation to the common interests of mankind."

"Being in a condition of darkness since birth has taught me that it is

HALIFAX, N. S., July 12.—Removal of the cargo of the liner Minnehaha, mysteriously set afire, was begun this afternoon, and an examination was being made in an effort to learn positively whether Frank Holt's bomb caused the explosion that started the blaze. Stevedores were put at work in No. 3 hold, where the fire broke out, early today, but while they were preparing to remove the cargo thick volumes of smoke came from the lower part of the hold. Fire hose was again played into the hold and at noon the fire was believed to be entirely out.

OPEN LISTS FOR "Y" NET TOURNAMENT

Association Singles Meet Begins Monday, July 22; Entries Received Next Week

Plans for the third annual singles tennis tournament held under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. have been practically completed. Entries will be received from July 12 to 16. The tournament is open to contestants from the entire city. An entry fee of fifty cents is required.

All games will be played on the normal or Jackson street courts, the committee leaving choice of the field to the contestants. The schedule will be posted in the association building Saturday, July 20. Play begins the following Monday.

The contestants will be divided into three classes by a committee consisting of Paul T. Schulze, Chester Pieper and Irving H. Kirchner. There is no appeal from the decision of this triumvirate.

The prizes for the tournament will be exhibited at the association building before the playing schedule begins.

The contestants will not be in danger of becoming hopelessly lost in a maze of by-laws and rules, but the officials insist that all games be played within 48 hours of the scheduled time, or forfeited, unless play is impossible because of the weather.

JUDGE UPHOLDS DOCUMENT TAX

MILWAUKEE, July 12.—Judge Fritz dismissed the action brought by the law firm of Peres, Strouse & Carter to compel the circuit court clerk to issue a certified copy of a legal document without affixing the ten cent war tax stamp. The complainants allege that the stamp tax law was unconstitutional. United States District Attorney Sullivan contended that the form of the action brought was improper and that the only proper form for such proceeding was by mandamus. It was on this contention that the court dismissed the case.

EAT LESS MEAT IF BACK HURTS

Take a glass of Salts to flush kidneys if bladder
bothers you.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked, get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation. The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney diseases.

The TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

STOLEN DAINTIES

BY CECIL THOMAS

In the farmhouse kitchen Linda Barnard rolled out pie crust and sang like a bird at the top of her sweet soprano voice. "Can she make a cherry pie, Billy Boy, Billy Boy?" and so on through several verses in which were rehearsed the domestic virtues of Billy's fiancée.

And Linda was making cherry pies herself, but her blithe song was not addressed to any especial auditor. She sang because she was happy.

Upstairs in the largest front chamber sat the first boarder of the season. He was sitting at a table drawn up to the window, and he was frowning over the pile of papers before him. He was not bothered over his work—that was an ever-recurring joy—but it was Linda's frequently reiterated vocal query that irritated him.

"For heaven's sake, can't a fellow get away from a racket?" he peevish. "Here I am isolated in Green Center because my apartment was made hideous with undesirable noises—a mechanical piano overhead, a phonograph on one side and a cornet on the other—and here the maid of all work chirps like a canary all day long! But her voice isn't half bad," he admitted grudgingly.

"Can she make a cherry pie, Billy Boy?"

Billy Wainright put his head out of the open window. "Take it from me she can make a cherry pie, Melissa!" he called down at the gingham-clad figure working at the pump handle. "Rings off!"

He gasped as the sunbonnet dropped back and a bewitching face was upturned to his.

"My name is not Melissa," she said sweetly. "Who is Melissa?"

Billy's face was crimson, but his chagrin added to his temper.

"I thought it was the cook," he said snappishly.

"Isn't that funny," gurgled Linda. "Why, I'm the cook!"

"You?" he gasped.

She nodded. "I'm sorry you don't like cherry pie," she added dolefully.

"But—but I do like it," he stammered. "It is my favorite pie—that and lemon meringue."

"You like lemon meringue pie, too?"

"I remember that—and rice pudding."

"I loathe it!"

"Bestly!"

"I'm so glad to know what you like," Linda smiled wickedly as she went into the house with a great pitcher of water.

"Funny I never saw her before—certainly she wasn't around last night when I came," mused Billy as he went back to his work. But the papers had lost their charm. Linda's charming face intervened and he found himself listening for the sound of her voice.

But the Billy song was silent; presently there fluted up through the window the rich strains of a bird song—a mellow, throaty warble that one associated with southern fields and the call of the mocking bird.

"I wonder," gasped Billy, going impulsively to the window that overlooked the side porch where the pump stood.

He recognized old Mr. Barnard before the kitchen door with a basket of newly laid eggs from the barn.

The whistling stopped abruptly. "Whistling gals and crowing hens never come to any good ends!" laughed the old man through the screen door.

"You haven't any crowing hens on the farm, Uncle Ben," said the girl merrily, "or you wouldn't be bringing in that evidence of their industry."

"Three dozen and three," counted Uncle Ben, now inside the kitchen. "I hope you're giving Mr. Wainright all the eggs he wants."

"Certainly, dear," Billy heard her answer. "Isn't it odd, Uncle Ben, he doesn't like cherry or lemon meringue pie and he adores rice pudding?" She laughed gleefully.

Billy shook his fist. "Well," yawned Uncle Ben, "if milk puddings satisfy him, all right—there's plenty of milk and eggs on the place—but, for goodness sake, keep the pies a-going, Linda, um-um! Do I smell cherry pie?"

"You surely do!" she cried gayly. "Hurry up, Uncle Ben, dinner's most ready."

Billy went back to his table frowning. "If there's cherry pie in the place, I'll have some!" he muttered darkly.

Presently came the resonant clang of the dinner bell, wielded by Linda's strong, young arm.

Billy, scrubbed and brushed to healthy, wholesome perfection, in his gray flannels, found a small round table set for one in the middle of the big dining room. It was an oasis in the midst of a desert waste of rascarped floor, choice pieces of mahogany found place in the room, and on the shelf ticked a curious old clock. There was a bowl of pasturings on the table and beyond the screened windows were glimpses of a garden breaking into bloom. The room was filled with the fragrance of roses and there was a bed of mignonette nearby. Bees boomed against the screens and darted away. Except for the ticking of the clock and the distant tinkle of chint the room was very still.

It is very lonely, indeed, to be the first boarder. But Billy admitted to himself that he had yearned for solitude when he chased Green Center in which to complete his story.

Linda waited upon the table, de-

CHAUTAUQUA IN FAVOR AT LANSING

Friday and Saturday Programs Prove Treats and Town Votes Engagement Best in Five Years

LANSING, Iowa, July 12.—(Special)—Friday's program at the Chautauqua afforded all attending a rare treat. The Hinton-Mordell company in impersonations and readings commanded the attention of the entire audience, while Robert Patterson's address "Catch My Pal," proved an innovation to all who heard him. The Variety Girls Saturday afternoon were in their usual good form, the climax of the day's work being Judge Lee S. Estelle's inspiring talk on the "Boy Accused of Crime." Taking the festival as a whole, it is the most generally satisfactory session held in Lansing in the past five years.

Personals
Mrs. B. Feurhelm terminated a six weeks' stay with St. Paul and Milwaukee relatives returning home Friday.

Robert Friedrichs, wrestler, is greeting his many friends in the city, arriving from Chicago Friday morning. Mr. Friedrichs is even heavier than when residing in Lansing, tipping the scales now at 240 pounds.

The Sperry children of Owatonna are the guests of their grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. Davis.

Mrs. Albert McGovern and Miss Margaret McGovern were town callers Friday afternoon. They report the arrival home of Albert McGovern from the hospital at Iowa City, an operation having been performed while there. Aside from a slight trouble with his eyes Mr. McGovern is rapidly improving.

The Matt Bechtel family started on a motor trip Saturday to New Hampton, for a visit with a daughter, who resides there.

The Ede family of Dubuque have been guests of Mayor Dr. Lytle and wife for the past week. Accompanying them is a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Ede's, Jacques Ede of France. The young fellow left his native country about six months ago, and contemplates a three or four years' sojourn in the states.

The Misses Mary and Margaret Byrne of Chicago are stopping with relatives here and at Lafayette. Sunday they were joined by another sister, Miss Isla, who came to Lansing in company with the Misses Margaretta and Mame Guider, who have been spending the past fortnight in the Windy city.

Uncle Ben, on his homeward way, saw him thus engaged, paused and eyed him humorously.

"Can she make a cherry pie, Billy Boy, Billy Boy?" he quavered in a cracked voice.

"She sure can," returned Billy unflinchingly, but never for a moment halting in his work of demolition.

Uncle Ben trudged on, laughing, into the house, and presently Linda appeared in the kitchen door, the supper bell jingling in her hand. Billy was disposing of the last segment of the pie when she discovered him and stood motionless regarding him with an expression which was far from hostile.

Billy, his lips stained cherry red, his face perceptibly flushed, returned her gaze defiantly. Little half-repressed smiles crinkled her face, but presently she broke into a cascade of laughter.

"I don't suppose you will want any supper after this," she choked at last.

"Never better prepared for a square meal in my life," he declared with amazing bravado. "But I don't want to eat it in solitary grandeur. If some one doesn't come in and eat at the table with me I'll go out into that little dining room with you and Uncle Ben."

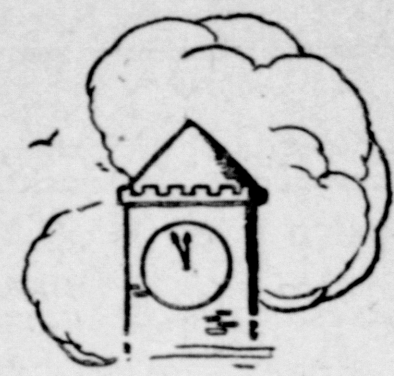

"Really?" she returned. "You seem to have what our old teacher used to call the gregarious instinct rather largely developed."

"I'm lonely," he confessed, "and I'm fond of cherry pie."

"I see," said Linda, contritely. "Uncle Ben and Aunt Hannah and I usually take our meals in the little dining room when there are boarders in the house. Perhaps you will join us tonight?"

"Thank you, if I may," he said humbly.

After supper, as they sat on the

if it was anything like the prune pie. Ah! That was a dream!"

Later he strolled slowly toward the house. Nightfall was at hand, but the insistent "Can she make a cherry pie?" was still ringing mockingly in his ears.

Billy passed the kitchen, but saw nothing of Linda. He saw something else, however, that interested him not a little. The pantry window was open—there was a sliding screen—and just within there was a shelf and on that shelf in plain relief was three-quarters of a luscious cherry pie! Beside the pie was a silver knife, as if to make the temptation complete.

One brief moment he paused, and then—he fell. With a swift movement he captured the pie and the knife and bore his booty in triumph to a rustic bench under a nearby apple tree.

Uncle Ben, on his homeward way, saw him thus engaged, paused and eyed him humorously.

"She sure can," returned Billy unflinchingly, but never for a moment halting in his work of demolition.

Uncle Ben trudged on, laughing, into the house, and presently Linda appeared in the kitchen door, the supper bell jingling in her hand. Billy was disposing of the last segment of the pie when she discovered him and stood motionless regarding him with an expression which was far from hostile.

Billy, his lips stained cherry red, his face perceptibly flushed, returned her gaze defiantly. Little half-repressed smiles crinkled her face, but presently she broke into a cascade of laughter.

"I don't suppose you will want any supper after this," she choked at last.

"Never better prepared for a square meal in my life," he declared with amazing bravado. "But I don't want to eat it in solitary grandeur. If some one doesn't come in and eat at the table with me I'll go out into that little dining room with you and Uncle Ben."

"Really?" she returned. "You seem to have what our old teacher used to call the gregarious instinct rather largely developed."

"I'm lonely," he confessed, "and I'm fond of cherry pie."

"I see," said Linda, contritely. "Uncle Ben and Aunt Hannah and I usually take our meals in the little dining room when there are boarders in the house. Perhaps you will join us tonight?"

"Thank you, if I may," he said humbly.

After supper, as they sat on the

veranda, Wainright spoke again of the pie.

"I'm afraid, Miss Barnard," he said, "that it will be a hard job for me to convince you of my respectability after that pie-eating episode." Linda flushed charmingly.

It was not until a year or so after her marriage that Mrs. Linda Wainright confessed to her husband that she had put that fateful cherry pie in the window of the farm house pantry with the hope that the new summer boarder would help himself to it.

Daddy's Bedtime

The Crow
Story—That Thought
He Could Sing.

All He Could Sing Was
"Caw, caw, caw."

"O F all the silly creatures I ever heard of," daddy told his two children. "I think the silliest was the crow that thought he could sing."

"It happened out in the peaceful country, all on a hot midsummer day. The green things were growing out in the fields, and the corn was coming up in straight rows out of the ground and was nodding and curtsying in the mild breeze to show how glad it was to be up and about under the warm sun."

"My story really begins some days before that particular midsummer afternoon when the birds had the nicest kind of a concert in the grove. It begins when the old black crow flew around and over the cornfield, eating the farmer's corn. That was not nice of the crow, which is a thievish creature. The farmer man didn't like it either, for he grew that corn to sell and not to be eaten by the thievish crow. So he put up a scarecrow to frighten the crow, but it didn't frighten that old thief at all. He had grown used to scarecrows."

"And one day—what do you think?—something happened that was so interesting that the old crow left off stealing corn long enough to hear it. He heard a tuneless bobolink telling a little brown Jenny Wren of a concert the birds were going to have down in the green grove upon an afternoon two weeks later."

"We're all going to practice our very best songs," said the bobolink. "I understand that M. Nightingale is in extra good voice, and his aria will be worth coming miles to hear. And everybody will do his best."

"And the old crow had then and there the oddest ambition you ever knew a crow to have. And what do you suppose it was? Why, he just made up his mind that he would sing at that concert too."

"So he went away and practiced till his throat was hoarse. And the day of the concert there he was. He stepped forward pompously with a word for the owl, who was director."

"The owl smiled. He was a wise old owl and had known too much to try to sing. But he could see a joke ahead on the old black crow."

"And after those wonderful warblers, the nightingale and the thrush and the whippoorwill and all the rest had sung their solos and been applauded, the wise old owl, with a wink that the crow could not see, said, 'M. Crow will now sing. "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep."'

"Old Mr. Crow ruffled his feathers and started. And all he sang was one note—"Caw, caw, caw," like that.

"The other birds flew away and left him cawing. Do you blame them? And the wise old owl laughed."

MAHONEY OF THE CHINESE WALL

Heaven grant us the patience to bear with Alderman Mahoney—if there is that much patience.

Is it love of notoriety? or of controversy? What is the thing in this man's nature that bids him take the off side even if it be the untenable unjustifiable, impossible side. To abstract, to contradict, to be at outs
and to talk about it, is the marrow
in his bones.

In America the Irishman is constructive, as a rule, and in that he contradicts the traits and traditions of the Irishman at home that have made him win England's battles and lose his own native land. Sir Horace Plunkett made the point in his recent lecture on Dr. Charles Mc-Carthy, that had he attempted in his native land a work similar to that which he has done in Wisconsin he never could have carried his cause
past the barriers of obstruction
which his fellow citizens would naturally and irresistibly have raised for no purpose at all but the sensation of raising them. In Mr. Mahoney we find the explanation of what Sir Horace meant.

We never know what to do with Mr. Mahoney. Constantly we find disapproval and approbation overlapping. We divide our time quite evenly between felicitations upon the fact that he is in the council and wishing he might become a missionary to the Hottentots.

A few weeks ago Mahoney blocked a slippery scheme of the traction people to secure a monopoly of the viaduct that is the only inlet of street car and interurban lines from the north. It was a truly vital matter, and but for Mahoney's searching eye it might have slipped through the council. Mahoney performed a great public service in nipping it.

Now comes the same Mahoney and assumes the most absurd and narrow position in relation to the La Crescent highway. A bridge on this greatest single country road leading to La Crosse has been declared unsafe. While it is a road built by La Crosse as a business feeder, and has never been taken over by Minnesota, Mahoney announces that he will enjoin the payment of city funds to perfect the road on the technical ground that it lies outside the state of Wisconsin. Mahoney will prevent this comparatively small contract although he has not raised his hand, either as a citizen, an alderman or
as city attorney, against the expenditure of approximately $100,000 on this same road and under the same illegal status.

To justify this gross inconsistency Mr. Mahoney offers the excuse that the bridge has been made free.
He knows that the people demanded
the abolition of the tolls in a public referendum in which no reference was made to Minnesota taking the road. He knows that one-third of the city's country business must cross that road. He is aware that the village element in Minnesota are eager to have traffic interrupted to aid them in building up home stores
and markets. Yet in deliberate violation of the spirit of a referendum which he promised to abide by, he plays into the hands of these competitors of La Crosse and insults the influential group of Houston and Winona county citizens who are working earnestly and intelligently for the adoption of this road as a Minnesota state highway.

It is so petty that did one not know Mahoney one might suspect it was malicious. In fact it is but another expression of a disposition to oppose everything he does not father and to insist upon fathering everything he supports. That disposition is not always fatal in a well-balanced council, for in ordinary cases
the majority overrules him when it is right, and when it is wrong and he right his opposition becomes public service.

In the present case, however, Mr.
Mahoney's conduct is reprehensible
in that he is not content to stand or fall upon his influence and his argument in the council. Defeated there,
he has taken advantage of a statute
in the violation of which he himself has long acquiesced. It is most unfortunate. It is so petty that we would shrink from advertising it as a product of La Crosse administration did we not feel the necessity of informing our Minnesota neighbors that the people of La Crosse are as resentful as are they.

A SERIOUS SITUATION

Instead of clarifying our international relations with Germany, the German note creates additional embarrassment. Germany does not acknowledge her error in the Lusitania affair; Germany does not recognize the law of search before seizure
as applicable to submarine warfare
under existing conditions; Germany insists upon the right to treat British merchantmen as vessels of war; Germany will guarantee the safety of the sea only to neutral merchantmen.

Stripped of its irrelevant discussion, this is the substance of Germany's reply to our demands.

Germany does not set up the claim, made semi-officially, that the Lusitania was armed and hence a ship of war. That pretence failed,
and she was forced to abandon it.
In its stead she offers for justification the assertion that an English order to British merchantmen to arm and to ram submarines places
the merchantmen of her foes in the class with vessels of war.

For the rights of the sea which we claim under established international law, and which Germany denies us, Germany offers conditions

in the nature of a concession, or favor, whereby American citizens may travel in safety by submitting to the dictation of Germany.

The question is, what are we going to do about it? We can not concede that Germany is right as to any single phase of the controversy. The issue is a straight line. If arbitration was impossible at the outset, it is still impossible. More notes and still more notes will avail nothing.

While Germany's suggestion that four English liners be designated for neutral service, and protected, provided they shall carry no contraband, might to a considerable extent
meet the necessities of travel, there exists the obstacle that to meet the conditions the United States would have to emulate Germany's assumption of the right to amend international law to the extent of censoring cargoes of belligerent merchantmen. Thus by accepting a double humiliation and receding from our legally impregnable position we may purchase a fragment of that which is our legal right.

The United States does not want war. To avoid it without loss of national prestige is the task set before the president. It can be done only if the administration shall compel recognition of a greatness and dignity of peace that shall make legal justifications of war seem mean and inconsequent by comparison.

The next time the north side kicks that the south side takes all the gravy some one sought to recall that inter-playground track meet in which Copeland park won all the prizes.

The boys are off for the front, and it's a lot of comfort to think that they'll come back with no more casualties than heel-blister or sunburn.

It is worthy of note that no one,
so far, has blamed the board of public works for losing that alley
the city engineer can't find.

Nobody but the telegraph operator reads the war office statements. Even the editor just puts a head on 'em
and sends 'em out.

Governor Philipp has won another victory (Russian).

Sheep Nature

"Now, Harold," said the teacher,
"if there were eleven sheep in a field and six jumped over the fence,
how many would there be left?"

"None!" replied Harold.

"Why, there would be some left,"
said the teacher.

"No, ma'am, there wouldn't," persisted the boy. "You may know arithmetic, but you don't know sheep!"

A LA CROSSE
INTERVIEW

Mr. Miller Tells His Experience.

The following brief account of an interview with a La Crosse man several years ago, and its sequel, will be read with keen interest by every citizen.

C. J. Miller, 607 N. Tenth St., La Crosse, says: "I had kidney complaint for several years and it was deep-rooted. I had a persistent, dull ache through my back that made me
as weak as a child. My whole body ached. I had rheumatic pains. I got Doan's Kidney Pills and they brought me fine relief, in fact, they gave better results than any other kidney medicine I had ever tried.
I know that Doan's Kidney Pills are a fine medicine for weak kidneys. I have recommended them before and I am glad to say that the benefit they brought me has lasted."

THIS WOMAN'S SICKNESS

Quickly Yielded To Lydia E.
Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Bridgeton, N.J.—"I want to thank you
a thousand times for the wonderful good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered very much from a female trouble. I had bearing down
pains, was irregular and at times could hardly walk across the room. I was unable to do my housework or attend to my baby I was so weak. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did me a world of good, and now I am strong and healthy, can do my work and tend my baby. I advise all suffering women to take it and get well as I did."—Mrs. FANNIE COOPER, R.F.D., Bridgeton, N.J.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, etc.

If you want special advice
write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened,
read and answered by a woman
and held in strict confidence.

Quips and Cranks
and Wanton Wiles

The Best Ban

Pat was invited to a wedding. He arrived at the house, faultlessly attired in evening dress, with a huge white chrysanthemum in his buttonhole. He was shown upstairs to the gentlemen's cloakroom. Suddenly, the assembled guests below were startled by a great commotion
above. They rushed into the hall
just in time to see Pat come tumbling head first down the stairs, completely dishevelled.

"Why, Pat, what is the matter?"
exclaimed the amazed host.
"Shure, and I went upstairs," answered Pat, "and whin I went into the room, I seed a young dandy wid
a white carnationaryum in his buttonhole, an' kid gloves on his hands,
an' sez to him: 'Who're you?'
"Shure," sez he, "I'm the best man!"
"An' begorra he is!"

Too Much of a Good Thing

A traveling salesman was handed a message from his wife, which read:

"Twins arrived tonight. More by mail." The drummer rushed to the telegraph office and hurriedly replied:

"If more arrive by mail, send them to dead letter office."

A Record in Running

"So you heard the bullet whiz past
you?" asked the lawyer of the darkey.

"Yes, sah, heard it twict."
"How's that?"
"Heard it whiz when it passed me,
and heard it again when I passed it."

Deformed

Little Doris, four years old, had to stand in the corner for being naugh-
ty. After some moments of perfect silence, Doris was observed intently examining the fingers of her left hand. Then tragically she exclaimed:

"My Dod! No two alike!"

Why the Class Laughed

A college professor, noted for strict discipline, entered the class room one day and noticed a girl
student with her feet projecting out in the aisle, and with her mouth full of gum.

"Mary," exclaimed the indignant professor, "take that gum out of your mouth, and put your feet in."

LOVE
INSURANCE

A COMEDY ROMANCE
By Earl Derr Biggers
Author of Seven Keys To Baldpate.
Copyrighted The Bobbs-Merrill Co.

"Splendid of you, really," said
Harrowby enthusiastically, as Minot held open the door for him. "I had the feeling I could fall back on you."

"And I have the feeling that you've fallen," smiled Minot. "So long—better wait up for my report."

Fifteen minutes later, seated in a small rowboat on the starry waters of the harbor, Minot was loudly saluting the yacht Lileth. Finally Mr.
Martin Wall appeared at the rail.

"Well—what d' you want?" he demanded.

"A word with you, Mr. Wall," Minot answered. "Will you be good enough to let down your accommodation ladder?"

For a moment Wall hesitated.
And Minot, watching him, knew why he hesitated. He suspected that the young man in the tiny boat
there on the calm bright waters had come to repay a call earlier in the evening—a call made while the host was out. At last he decided to let down the ladder.

"Glad to see you," he announced
genially as Minot came on deck.

"Awfully nice of you to say that," Minot laughed. "Reassures me. Because I've heard there are sharks in these waters."

They sat down in wicker chairs on the forward deck. Minot stared at the cluster of lights that was San Marco by night.

"Corking view you have of that tourist-haunted town," he commented.

"Ah—yes," Mr. Wall's queer eyes narrowed. "Did you row out here to tell me that?" he inquired.

"A deserved rebuke," Minot returned. "Time flies, and my errand is a pressing one. Am I right in assuming, Mr. Wall, that you are Lord Harrowby's friend?"

"I am."

"Good. Then you will want to help him in the very serious difficulty in which he now finds himself. Mr.
Wall, the man who calls himself the real Lord Harrowby made his debut
on a vaudeville stage tonight."

"So I've heard," said Wall, with a short laugh.

"Lord Harrowby's fiancée and her father are greatly disturbed. They insist that this impostor must be removed from the scene at once, or there will be no wedding. Mr. Wall
—it is up to you and me to remove him."

"Just what is your interest in the matter?" Wall inquired.

"The same as yours. I am Har-rowby's friend. Now, Mr. Wall, this is the situation as I see it—wanted,
board and room in a quiet neighborhood for Mr. George Harrowby. Far from the street-cars, the vaudeville stage, the wedding march and other disturbing elements. And what is more, I think I've found the quiet neighborhood. I think it's right here aboard the Lileth."

"Oh—indeed!"

"Yes. A simple affair to arrange.
Mr. Wall, Trimmer and his live proposition are just about due for their final appearance of the night at the opera house right now. I will call at the stage door and lead Mr.
Trimmer away after his little introductions. I will keep him away until you and a couple of your sailors—I suggest the two I met so informally in the North River—have met the vaudeville lord at the stage door and gently, but firmly, persuaded him to come aboard this boat."

Mr. Wall regarded Minot with a cynical smile.

"A clever scheme," he said.
"What would you say was the penalty for kidnapping in this state?"

"Oh, why look it up?" asked Mi-not carelessly. "Surely Martin Wall is not afraid of a backwoods constable."

"What do you mean by that, my boy?" said Wall, with an ugly stare.

"What do you think I mean?"
Minot smiled back. "I'd be very glad to take the role I've assigned you—I can't help feeling that it will be more entertaining than the one I have. The difficulty in the way is Trimmer. I believe I am better fitted to engage his attention. I know him better than you do, and he trusts
me—begging your pardon, further."

"He did give me a nasty dig," said
Wall, flaming at the recollection.
"The noisy mountebank! Well, my

A mystery? No—but you'll be mighty glad when you

boy, your young enthusiasm has won
me. I'll do what I can."

"And you can do a lot. Watch me until you see me lead Trimmer away.
Then get his pet, I'll steer Trimmer somewhere near the beach, and keep an eye on the Lileth. When you get George safely aboard, wave a red light in the bow. Then Trimmer and I shall part company for the night."

"I'm on," said Wall, rising. "Anything to help Harrowby. And—this won't be the first time I've waited at the stage door."

"Right-o," said Minot. "But don't stop to buy a champagne supper for a trained seal, will you? I don't want to have to listen to Mr. Trimmer all night."

They rowed ashore in company with two husky members of the yacht's crew, and ten minutes later
Minot was walking with the pompous
Mr. Trimmer through the quiet plaza. He had told that gentleman that he came from Allan Harrowby
to talk terms, and Trimmer was puffed with pride accordingly.

"So Mr. Harrowby has come to his senses at last," he said. "Well, I thought this vaudeville business would bring him round. Although I must say I'm a bit disappointed—
down in my heart. My publicity campaign has hardly started. I had so many lovely little plans for the future—say, it makes me sad to win

so soon."

"Sorry," laughed Minot. "Lord Harrowby, however, deems it best to call a halt. He suggests—"

"Pardon me," interrupted Mr.
Trimmer grandiloquently. "As the victor in the contest, I shall do any suggesting that is done. And what I suggest is this—tomorrow morning
I shall call upon Allan Harrowby at his hotel. I shall bring George with me, also some newspaper friends of mine. In front of the crowd Allan Harrowby must acknowledge his brother as the future heir to the earldom of Raybrook."

"Why the newspaper men?" Mi-not inquired.

"Publicity," said Trimmer. "It's
the breath of life to me—my business, my first love, my last. Frankly, I want all the advertisement out of this thing I can get. At what hour shall we call?"

"You would not consider a delay of a few days?" Minot asked.

"Save your breath," advised Trimmer promptly.

"Ah—I feared it," laughed Minot.
"Well then—shall we say eleven o'clock? You are to call—with George Harrowby."

"Whys" of Moves in European War

BY J. W. MASON
NEW YORK, July 12.—Jealousies in the British government over the sudden ascendancy of Lloyd George as the potential savior of the empire, are the causes of the thinly veiled attacks now being made on the minister of munitions. Some of England's statesmen are intent on making political capital for themselves out of the war, and they do not regard Lloyd George's prestige with any kindness.
This is why Lord Haldane, the late lord chancellor, has gone out of his way to reveal the fact that a ministerial committee to increase the output of munitions was formed last October, and among the members was Lloyd George himself. Lord Haldane suggests the measures now being taken to speed up the production of war stores ought to have been begun last autumn. The inference which the ex-lord chancellor desires to create is that Lloyd George is nine months behind with his plans to save the empire.
Lord Haldane is Premier Asquith's closest political and personal friend. It is impossible to believe that the attack on Lloyd George would have been made except with Mr. Asquith's tacit approval, if not with his direct knowledge. Suggestions have recently been made in England that Lloyd George is destined to oust Mr. Asquith as prime minister. Doubtless they have been discussed by Lord Haldane and Mr. Asquith, with the result that an effort has been made to demonstrate that Lloyd George was as blind as the war office earlier in the war, to the urgent need for more ammunition.

Lord Kitchener, however, was chairman of the government's munitions commission last October and he was then at the height of his prestige and power. He was virtual dictator of England and could not have been over-ruled by Lloyd George or anyone else. His responsibility was absolute. The failure he made on the job is not yet fully understood by Englishmen, though it is by the Germans. The attacks on Lord Kitchener by those who know how his limitations of executive ability caused the ammunition scarcity, are now taking the form of a flank movement. Major General Sir Stanley von Donop, as master general of ordnance, was Kitchener's chief subordinate in the munitions bureau of the war office. The demand for von Donop's removal is an attempt to fasten responsibility by inference on Kitchener, who outlined the policy which von Donop followed, but von Donop's retirement would be a triumph for Lloyd George, who is believed to desire that his own hands be strengthened through the infliction of public punishment on the higher incompetents at the war office. Rival politicians do not want this to happen and so England still remains in the mud-dling stage.

SYRIAN BABIES ARE NAMED WITH FORMS OF ORTHODOX SECT

All of Syrian Colony Sees Infants of Monsoor and Addis Families Baptized at St. Elias'

A double baptism ceremony took place at the St. Elias Syrian Orthodox church on Mill street Sunday afternoon, when Rev. N. E. Yanney christened the infant son of George Addis, and the daughter of Matt Monsoor. The Addis infant was given the Christian name of Michael and the parents of the Monsoor girl named her Emma. The ceremony was conducted in the Syrian language.

Practically all of the Greek Orthodox Syrian colony of the north side watched the ceremonies with which the priest thrice immersed the infants in the baptismal font, after he had anointed them with holy oil on the forehead, the eyes, the mouth, the ears, the heart, the palms and back of the hands, the sole and instep of each foot and the small of the back.

Marcus Addis acted as godfather for the Addis infant, while Mrs. George Sady was his godmother. Mrs. Sady was godmother to the little Monsoor girl.

The little son of William Shain was baptized this afternoon at the church by Rev. Yanney, the ceremony taking place at two o'clock. Mr. S. Munyer of Chicago, was godfather to the boy.

GERMANS USE GAS IN SOUCHEZ ATTACK

Thousands of Bombs Containing Asphyxiating Gases Drive French from Trenches

PARIS, July 12.—A furious German night attack south of Souchez, in which the enemy used thousands of asphyxiating bombs forced the French to evacuate the Souchez cemetery and portions of adjoining trenches, the war office admitted this afternoon.

The first attack by the Germans failed. The French responded to the German charge with a bayonet counter-attack that swept the Teutons back upon their own trenches. While the enemy was re-forming for his second attack the French works were heavily shelled. A large part of the projectiles gave off asphyxiating gases that hung over the cemetery in a calm night and rendered the French positions untenable. The French troops therefore withdrew to positions in the rear, from which they shelled the enemy with great effectiveness.

For forty-eight hours the Germans have continued their attempt to recapture the "Labyrinth" southeast of Neuville. They are attacking with hand grenades and bombs. All their attacks thus far have been fruitless.

There are several million women in this world and every one is different from all the rest.

BIG CROWDS AT BIJOU SUNDAY

Little Mary Pickford played to one of the biggest crowds in the Bijou's history Sunday, both matinee and evening. In spite of the hot weather, picture fans were hungry for a Pickford picture as Little Mary had not appeared at the Bijou for some time. In Fanchon the Cricket, Mary plays the part of a half wild girl of the woods, a part to which she is particularly adapted. She is supported by her sister Lottie and her brother Jack. This is the first time the Pickfords have worked together in any picture. This Famous Player attraction will be shown again tonight and Tuesday, to be followed by the Seventh Vital Question of the Who Pays Pathe Balboa series on Wednesday matinee and evening.

DETROIT, Mich., July 12.—Arrest of the murderer of Leroy L. Merrit, 30, whose nude and headless body was found Saturday in the Detroit river near Grosse Isle, was believed imminent today. Officials in the sheriff's office refused to divulge the name of the man suspected.

Jealousy over a woman's love, he hinted, prompted the crime. Merrit disappeared from his boarding house in Wyandotte on January 6.

TURF FIRES BREAK OUT

AMSTERDAM, July 12.—Several great turf fires have broken out in Germany, southwest of Hanover and war prisoners and German troops have been sent to fight the flames, according to Osnabruck dispatches today.

War Office News of Fighting

CONSTANTINOPLE

CONSTANTINOPLE, via Berlin wireless, July 12.—A British battleship of the Lord Nelson type was heavily shelled by Turkish forts near Gaba Tepe Saturday night and forced to withdraw, it was officially announced today. Several of the Turkish projectiles exploded over the warship's deck and are believed to have done considerable damage.

The enemy battleship, accompanied by four torpedo boats, appeared off Gaba Tepe at sunset and opened fire on the Turkish works, hurling at least 200 shells but doing no damage to the forts.

The Turkish casualties consisted of one man killed and two wounded.

Official dispatches received here today discredited reports from enemy sources that there has been any violent fighting on Gallipoli peninsula, since the last attempt by the Anglo-French near Krithia was beaten back with heavy losses.

The Turkish official report that a battleship of the Lord Nelson type, bombarded the Turkish forts conflicts with stories coming from Constantinople and Berlin several weeks ago that both the Lord Nelson and the Agamemnon, two of the largest British battleships at the strait, had been destroyed. These are the only two vessels of the Lord Nelson type in the British navy.

The easier a man takes things the easier it is for him to let them slide.

Madam, Allow Me To Introduce the New Post Toasties

You may have eaten "corn flakes," but you have never tasted any that equal the New Post Toasties.

These new flakes, madam, are crisp and flakey, and have a substance and toastie flavour, a snap and zest that make them distinctive.

Dainty to be sure in their sweetness, the New Post Toasties have a body and firmness that don't mush down when cream or milk is added; and a true ripe-corn flavour that makes one feel that here, at last, is something really new and good to eat.

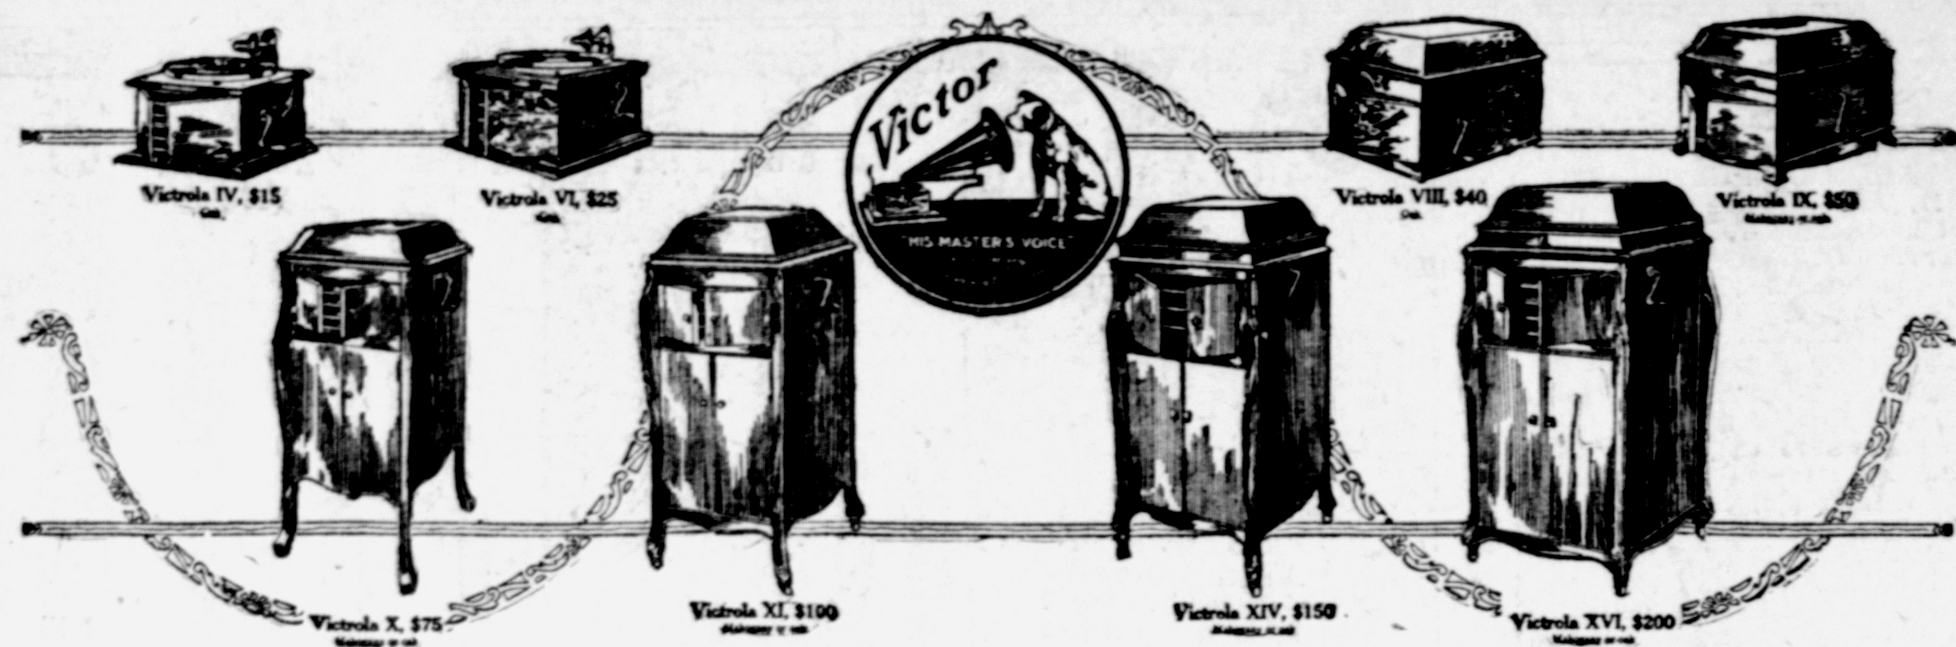

New Post Toasties—selected Indian corn, prepared for the table as it was never prepared before.

Your grocer has them now.

First Prize Letter In "Buy At Home" Contest

As announced in previous editions, the prize winning letters in the Buy at Home contest that has been running in the TRIBUNE are ready to be announced.

The latter winning the first prize was submitted by Rev. Finch A. Clarke, pastor of the North Presbyterian church. Rev. Clarke's letter follows:

July 3, 1915.

Dear Tribune:

I wish to present the following reasons why La Crosse people should buy at home:

First: Because people in other cities buy at home—not here—out of loyalty to their city.

Second: Because every dollar spent here adds to the merchant's ability to obtain the best and most complete stock of goods.

Third: Because the business men employ people who are dependent for a living upon the firms of this city.

Fourth: Because the merchants and manufacturers, etc., pay taxes here—not in Chicago.

Fifth: Because the business men of La Crosse support, directly and indirectly, the professional class: the doctors, lawyers, teachers, clergymen, etc.

Sixth: Because, if the buyer were a merchant, he would buy from himself. Every citizen is benefited by the success of the merchants. A live town means plenty of opportunities to earn a living.

Seventh: Because the charitable and religious institutions are dependent upon the loyalty of business men as well as the working people of this city. I have read that in a certain town a member of a church asked a merchant for money for the purpose of erecting a new church. The merchant replied that he would give $50 on condition that he be allowed to write a brief statement after his name on the subscription list. That permission was granted and he wrote, "John Smith & Co., $50—Mail Order company nothing."

Eighth: Because a steady business, made possible by reliable customers, produces confidence among business men, who must believe that they will succeed before they will erect new buildings or employ more clerks, etc.

Ninth: Because we all wish to be friends—each one helping the other.

Tenth: Because our credit is better here than in some other city.

Eleventh: Because we may need that credit some day.

Very sincerely,

FINCH A. CLARKE.

The second prize was won by E. H. Cleveland of Trempealeau, Wis. His letter will be published Thursday, July 15. The third prize was won by Miss Margaret Fitzpatrick, 1606

CITY DADS JOYRIDE ON NEW FIRE TRUCK AND KOHN'S HAT GETS LOST

With Fire Chief Nathan Bradfield grinding the screaming siren and Former Mayor Ori J. Sorensen dingling on the bell, the new automobile fire truck took a load of city officials, past and present, out for a "joy ride" this morning on its first official trial trip. The big hundred horsepower truck got a real try-out. It was driven over every kind of pavement and absence of pavement the city streets afford, and it was taken over bumps and around curves at speed with the cut-out open and all the aldermen hanging onto their hats.

Forty miles an hour on the straightaway was the best speed the truck made—up Caledonia street and across the causeway. At twenty-five miles it plowed through the deep sand on upper Charles street, leaving a wake of gasoline vapor and dust. Apparently there was power and to spare.

Alderman Frank Kohn's hat couldn't keep up. City Sealer E. H. Derr, trailing in the wake of the big truck, picked it up on Charles street, and for the rest of the trip followed the official joy-riders by the gleam of the Alderman's bald spot through the murk of the dust and exhaust.

SIX LEAVE FOR PURITY CONGRESS

B. S. Steadwell and Five Others Off for Convention of Reformers at Frisco

A delegation of six, led by B. S. Steadwell, editor of "The Light" and president of the World's Purity Federation, left La Crosse this morning for the ninth Purity League congress of the world at San Francisco. They are Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Steadwell, Miss Norah Martinson, Miss Edna Thompson, Mrs. R. H. Hoeftle and Dr. Emma F. A. Drake.

Mr. Steadwell will preside at the congress, held under the direction of the federation for suppression of vice throughout the world. Many nations will be represented, and every state in this country will send delegates. Assistant District Attorney Bartlett of Milwaukee, and Mrs. B. C. Hall of Pardeeville, have been appointed delegates from Wisconsin by Governor Philipp.

The La Crosse delegation will board a special train for California at Chicago tonight.

DISCUSSES PARDON

A telephone message from the office of Governor Hammond at St. Paul at 3:30 this afternoon said that the case of John Kolb, Charles Hammond and Orin Kalderwit, whose application for pardon was heard on Thursday, is under discussion and will be decided late today.

Berlin street, and her letter will be published on Monday, July 19.

Orders will be mailed to the prize winners for $5 worth of merchandise redeemable at any of the stores whose advertisements appear on the "Buy at Home" page in the TRIBUNE.

The judges of the contest were Hon. Tom Morris, James Thompson and Otto M. Schlachach.

FAMILIAR FIGURE OF JOHN DAMMAN TAKEN BY DEATH

Old Baggage Man Who Was Well Known for Half a Century in La Crosse Died Saturday

John Damman, for fifty-two years a resident of La Crosse, and for many years baggage man for the Hayes Transfer company, formerly the Law Transfer company, died at his home, 421 Main street, at 11 o'clock Saturday night. Death resulted from a complication of diseases at the age of sixty-six years. Mr. Damman for nearly thirty years had been a sufferer with inflammatory rheumatism.

Well Known Figure

Although unable to continue steadily at his employment, he pursued the transfer business at intervals, and was a well known figure to the traveling public of the entire northwest. His courtesies won the friendship of hundreds, who during the four years of his continuous confinement to the sick chamber have never failed to inquire of his condition and have visited him often.

Mr. Damman came to La Crosse when a boy of fourteen years. He was born on a farm near Sparta. His early education was gained there, and upon his arrival in La Crosse, he engaged himself in the service of a hotel, long since torn down.

Lived in First Frame House

Mr. Damman did not remain in the hotel business longer than one year, when he joined the Law Transfer company, now the Hayes Transfer company. He would have celebrated the thirty-fifth anniversary of his marriage August 27. Upon their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Damman occupied the first frame dwelling ever erected in La Crosse. The dwelling stood between Main and State streets in Fourth street and was long a landmark. It was torn down recently.

Thirty years ago Mr. Damman was first troubled with inflammatory rheumatism. Medical aid failed to give him relief, and for long periods was forced to remain at home. During intervals of good health he resumed his duties as baggage man. The traveling public came to know him well, and many will receive news of his death with sorrow.

Mr. Damman is survived by his widow.

Mr. Damman will be buried with Knights of Pythias honors, in the lodge work of which order he has made himself conspicuous.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the home of Mrs. David Law, 435 South Fourth street. Rev. W. J. Peacock, pastor of the First Baptist church, will officiate. Interment will take place in Oak Grove.

SHOT AS COP HIS WIFE CAN COLLECT ONLY POLICE AWARD

Under the ruling of the court Jones was technically under arrest by Louis Weinsarten, a deputy sheriff, but he apparently was not under the control of the deputy.

The court further held that Jones was engaged in disturbing the peace and that the deputy did not prevent further continuance of such conduct; that it was the duty of the marshal to prevent continuance of such conduct, and that it was the duty of the deceased to assist the marshal in preserving peace regardless of whether he had a warrant for his arrest.

Doing Policeman's Work

Judge Stevens found that for the time being Voeck was performing the duty of a policeman pursuant to a command which he was obliged to obey on pain of punishment. Under the law the marshal had a right to summon the deceased to aid him and when he obeyed the command he was in the service of the village under any appointment, according to the court.

In remanding the case back to the commission Judge Stevens held that the compensation must be based on earnings in the "same or similar" or the "most similar employment" in that which the deceased was employed at the time of the injury.

Few men live long enough to discover how much their friends appreciate them.

MILITIAMEN SLEEP IN LUXURY NOW—THEY HAVE COTS

Local Soldiers at Camp Douglas Find Feet Protected from "Crawlers" This Year

SPLIT UP TENTH BATTALION

Old Reedsburg Company Is Transferred to the First Regiment; Sunday Is Spent Loafing

(By Victor Jacobson, Tribune Special Correspondent.)

CAMP DOUGLAS, Wis., July 12.—The Third regiment is encamped on Camp Douglas reservation in a picturesque area lately platted out by Major Charles Williams. Nine hundred and seventy enlisted men and fifty-eight officers are under the command of Colonel R. Richards of Sparta. The tactics and maneuvers are under the direction of regular army officers, General Charles King, Captain Robert Wescott, Lieutenant P. A. Wrightson, commandant of the University cadets, and Captain Richardson.

Split Tenth Battalion

The Tenth Separate battalion of former years has been split up into a company of infantry from Chippewa Falls and one machine gun company from Rice Lake. The old Reedsburg company is now in the First regiment.

Company I of Superior was the first to arrive on the grounds Saturday morning and later Companies M and B of La Crosse, the sanitary corps under Major D. S. McArthur, the mounted orderlies and regimental band from Viroqua under Musician Brown. The white conical tents have been supplanted by the brown pyramidal covers which are more spacious. An important improvement in tent comforts are the cots which preserve the soldiers' feet from "crawlers" and kindred vermin as well as add to the general comfort.

Yesterday was Sunday in camp and the day was spent in listening to a sermon by Chaplain Longbrake, the singing of patriotic songs from hymnals furnished by The TRIBUNE, followed by a rousing baseball game between a town team from the village of Camp Douglas and the regimental team. The boys won.

Klinge Wins Cup Title

Word was received at the reservation that former Sergeant Major John Klinge won the shooting title of the Minnesota National guard. His score was 246 out of a possible 250. He made possible scores at 200, 500, 800 and 1,000 yards and 46 out of 50 at 300 yards.

Klinge joined the Minnesota Guard a few weeks ago on account of being located in St. Paul. He was a former member of Company B of La Crosse.

In the school for officers General King, General Orlando Holway and Colonel Richards instructed in fire discipline and direction and control of fire.

WEEK-END WELCOME TO PHILIPP FORCES

Printing Board Bill

The state printing board bill is also on Tuesday's calendar. This proposes to create a new printing commission, composed of the governor, superintendent of public property appointed by the governor, and a state editor appointed by the governor (presently much all governor). The present board consists of the secretary of state, attorney general and state treasurer, each elected by and responsible to the people. A sweeping power of control over all material to be printed is contained in the new bill, which its opponents insist might stifle individual initiative in calling attention to existing governmental wrongs.

The third large measure up this week is the Frank Hanson bill to repeal most of the corrupt practices act. In other words, to take the teeth out of the present wholesome statute on the subject. This would mean a return to the old system of distributing beer and cigars by candidates for public office. Current opinion holds that the main spring back of this bill is to let down the bars so that hundreds of thousands of dollars may be sent into the state and be spent promiscuously to defeat Robert M. La Follette in case he should run for the senate again next year.

Also the Stemper Bill

What Senator Skogmo has seen fit to characterize as the "odious Stemper bill" will come up in the assembly this week. On the floor a few days ago Senator Bosshard charged that this bill was a sword suspended over the necks of certain law-makers to compel them to line up in a certain way, or words to that effect. The bill passed the legislature two weeks ago without pronouncement against it during its stormy voyage like those now being issued by the governor relative to the central board of education bill. A sigh of relief came to the legislature with the passage of the bill and its arrival at the executive office, but it proved only a mare's nest, for the governor promptly announced the bill must be recalled and again amended to limit it to Milwaukee before he would sign it.

A movement is afoot among progressives to send the Stemper bill back to the governor in the form in which it was originally passed, and give him the opportunity of vetoing it if he desires.

TOMSYNA CORLISLE SEES HER MOTHER FOR FIRST TIME

the brain and not the sense of sight which counts. I have learned the superiority of mind over matter and the absolute subjugation of the senses by mind. In that land of darkness fear is the unknown quantity, for fear is created by a physical sensation, either of hearing or sight.

"Closes Eyes, Fears Not"

"Today I willingly dispose of the sight given me by closing my eyes when fear threatens to come upon me, by reason of seeing something which appears dangerous simply because I can see it. If I am at a street crossing which threatens danger in my eye, I close my eyes and walk forward rejoicing in safety."

"I have been asked if I had any one great desire for sight. I wanted sight only that I might the better serve the interests of the blind, whose ranks I have quitted only insofar as I will not longer be called blind. They need and deserve help. Every blind man or woman, whether old or young or blinded in middle age or born to darkness, should be self-supporting, and an intelligent treatment of these commonly-thought helpless ones will accomplish this most desirable result."

Green First Objectable

"Of course, I have had some strange sensations since regaining sight, but they are difficult to describe or classify. Green was an objectionable color at first; now I adore it. The speed of moving objects, particularly on the streets, staggered me for a time, but the form of them meant nothing to me. Dress styles, architecture, the shape of letters and figures, physical features of all kinds do not amaze me. They are new, of course, but because of my short possession of sight. I have not developed a taste which would permit me to say what is beautiful or what is ugly."

"Indeed, although the words 'frown' and 'smile' have always been in my vocabulary, smiles and frowns on the faces of those in my company since I gained sight have meant only facial contortions and nothing more. You can catch from this just how all things strike me. I cannot differentiate yet. The dress that mother wears I know is longer and darker than mine, but as to which would be fairly considered the more appropriate and beautiful I am not able to judge—yet." There was the smile of the eternal feminine accompanying that appended "yet."

To Receive Blind

"Two letters, both from people in Los Angeles who have only recently become blind, were waiting for me on my arrival today. I am writing them to come and see me that I may talk to them, learn their condition and determine how best I may serve them. To write would be a cold and useless procedure.

"I am going to rest for a time and permit my eye to gain its full power. Five pairs of special glasses have been furnished me by Dr. Hulén, and these represent the stages of development my sight must pass. In the meantime, however, I am going to study conditions down here that I may find how best I can fit into the new life that is ahead of me. I always intended to devote myself to the blind and, whether here or in the north, I will do so."

A Beautiful Girl

Miss Carlyle is a beautiful girl. Blessed with superb health, with lithe, slender figure, muscles under exact control, she seems steel—a live wire. Her manner instantly inspires to action and achievement; she is a born teacher, a natural leader, bubbling over with vigor and enthusiasm, just aching to do things. She is as full of common sense and homely philosophy as a "Martha-by-the-Day," and as rich in sunny faith as "Pollyanna."

She has a head literally crowned with great coils of hair, beautiful whether you name it Titian or Auburn, or as she says, red. "I should have a disposition to match," she said laughing, "but really I am very even tempered. I can never remember losing my temper until today, when the reporters crowded around the boat as I landed, demanding my picture with my arms about my mother's neck. Then I was vexed, and I told them so."

BRIDGE REPAIRED WITH OLD PLANKS

Second-hand lumber is being used by the board of public works in repairs to the foot-walk of the La Crosse river bridge. The repairs were ordered at the May meeting of the council when it was represented as to be a menace to safety. Saturday D. W. MacWillie, president of the Wisconsin Pearl Button company, closed off the walk because of its danger. The board began the repairs this morning.

COPELAND REPEATS ATHLETIC VICTORY

Copeland park repeated its victories of the boys' field meet on Friday by winning practically everything in sight at the senior and junior play-field contests Saturday. Incidentally, Copeland unblinking a dark horse wonder in the person of Hanson, who brought home wins in the century dash, the running broad and high jumps, events which had been conceded to Kinnear. Hanson made it a good one by also taking third in the 300 yard dash.

The Copeland junior team succeeded in placing three men in every event, winning all of the 45 possible points.

The senior meet was also won by Copeland park with 44 points. West avenue was second with 15 points, while Hood street failed to place. The meet was slow.

The Results

The finals of the senior meet follow:

100 yard dash—First, M. Knutson, Copeland; second, Ryan, Copeland; third, Munson. Time, 12 seconds.

440 yard dash—First, Ryan, Copeland; second, Knutson, Copeland; third, Munson, Copeland. Time, 61 seconds.

Footbal throw—First, Ryan, Copeland; second, Weeks, West avenue; third, Knutson, Copeland. Distance, 40 yards.

High jump—First, Corcau, Copeland; second, Weeks, West avenue; third, Munson, Copeland. Height, 5 feet 4 inches.

Pole vault—First, Weeks, West avenue; second, Mabbold, Copeland; third, Munson, Copeland. Height, 7 feet 4 inches.

Shot put—First, Lund, West avenue; second, Ryan, Copeland; third, Munson, Copeland. Distance, 37 feet.

Running broad jump—First, Ryan, Copeland; second, Knutson, Copeland; third, Weeks, West avenue. Distance, 18 feet 11 inches.

Copeland, 44 points; West avenue, 15 points; Hood, 0.

The results of the junior meet follow:

100 yard dash—First, Hanson, Copeland; second, Kinnear, Copeland; third, Coughlin, Copeland. Time, 12 seconds.

300 yard dash—First, Kinnear, Copeland; second, Coughlin, Copeland; third, Hanson, Copeland. Time, 4:13.

Footbal throw—First, Kinnear, Copeland; second, Coughlin, Copeland; third, Downey, Copeland. Distance, 39 yards 2 feet.

Running board jump—First, Hanson, Copeland; second, Kinnear, Copeland; third, Copeland, Distance, 15 feet 5 inches.

Running high jump—First, Hanson, Copeland; second, Kinnear, Copeland; third, Björkstén, Copeland.

Copeland, 45 points; West avenue, 0; Hood street, 0.

CHICAGO, July 12.—Twenty-five thousand bugs saw Washington and the White Sox split a double-header yesterday, the visitors winning the opening game 8 to 5, and the Sox taking the second 12 to 3. Faber lost the first game in the fourth round when the Nationals put four runs over. Benz also was hit hard. In the second game Cicotte held Washington to one tally until the ninth when he eased up and allowed four runs. In this inning Gandil knocked a homer with one on. Eddie Collins was the batting star in both games. He got three singles in each contest.

MADISON GOLFERS
WIN TOURNEY OVER
LACROSSE PLAYERS

Robert Gordon Beats Former State Champ; Maple Bluffers Get Lead of 33

Madison golfers secured first hold on the Maple Bluff cup Saturday afternoon when they defeated La Crosse 51 to 18 in the first event of the home and home play of the year at Madison, the score giving them a lead of 33 points. The cup must be won three years in succession to become the permanent property of either club.

Robert Gordon defeated former state champion, F. W. Jacobs, by one point, playing one of the best games of the afternoon.
George Van Auker, Robert Gordon, F. P. Hixon, George W. Burton, Alfred James, F. H. Hankerson, C. F. Michel and G. Van Steenwyck were the only La Crosse players to score. Andrew Lees tied at zero with his opponent.

The La Crosse visitors were tendered a dinner at the Maple Bluff clubhouse after the tournament. They were also guests at luncheon Saturday. They returned early yesterday morning.

WEIGEL PITCHES
GOOD GAME BUT LOSES ON ERRORS

Despite the fact that Weigel allowed but four hits, the Clothiers lost yesterday, 6 to 3, to the Caledonia Commercial, errors throwing away chances for victory for his team. Tanke caught, playing a good game. Haus and Hunt composed the Caledonia battery.

AUSTRIANS LAUNCH MINES
ROME, July 12.—The Austrians have launched thousands of floating mines in the Adriatic, according to information reaching the ministry of marine today. From the Austrian naval base at Pola they have been carried southward and long the Italian coast. A sailing ship sighted one of the mines off Bari yesterday and exploded it with rifle shots.

LYNXVILLE MEN IN

Railroaders Prove Trifle Too Much for the Visitors Grabbing Big End of Score

The twist that Bob Ritter had on the ball, especially in the pinches, was the undoing of Lynxville at League park yesterday when the down-river visitors were defeated 6 to 3 by Nally's bunch. On two occasions a hit would have meant two runs for Lynxville but the needed blow was not forthcoming.

The trainmen scored in the first on Smith's two bagger and Johnson's drive to short right. Again in the second frame they pushed over two runs on Taylor's walk, Mullen's life on an error, Ritter's hit and Grosscup's single, Taylor and Mullen scoring. They put the game on ice in the fifth inning. After Ritter had flied out, Grosscup was punctured in the back and Keaveney hit and stole second with Grosscup at third. Thy scored on Smith's second double. Smith scored a minute later on Johnson's sacrifice.

Lynxville started their run making in the third. Lawless singled and reached second on Mickelstad's error. Then, with two out, Nagle singled, scoring Lawless. A Vanderbilt singled, but Bright grounded out. Lynxville threatened to tie the score in the sixth, as it was scoring two runs. Collins singled and took second on Jiggers' error. Lawless grounded and in trying to get Collins at the plate, Davis, Ritter and Johnson did a mix. The runner scored. Benhart laid down his time at bat to advance Lawless, who scored on Angles single.

Ritter whiffed #x and Bright nearly equalled the figure with five. Both pitchers were stingy with the passes, Bright allowing two to Ritter's one.

ELEVENTH STRAIGHT WIN BY NELSONS AT PRAIRIE DU CHIEN

Raymond Sickles pitched the Nelsons to their eleventh consecutive win yesterday when Prairie du Chien was defeated 11 to 3. Although securing only nine strikeouts to the opposing pitcher's eleven, Sickles held the hits scattered.

Meinert performed well at the bat with four hits out of as many times at bat. Roeder made three hits in five times at the plate. Four of the eleven stolen bases went to Meinert and three to Roeder. Elmer Wachter, La Crosse normal school catcher, worked behind the bat for Prairie du Chien. Yesterday's Homers

Sewilling, Chifeds, off Main, Kawfeds.

Tyrus Cobb and Old Sam Crawford again staged their time worn act of putting the ball game on the Fritz. Sam tied the score with the Red Sox with a triple, then won the game with a double, while Cobb got three hits and stole a flock of bases. The loss was hard on the Red Sox for they need all these games to catch the fleeing White Sox.

Cleveland played swell ball against the Yanks. It took them twelve innings to lose, whereas they generally manage to do it in nine, easily. The Browns and Athletics are staging a warm battle for sixth place, but some how the fans do not seem interested in them.

Right after Mr. Cobb wrote that Ray Schalk was the best catcher in any league, the Senators had to go out and steal six bases off him. In the search for something they could lick, the Cincinnati Reds penetrated to Long Branch, N. J., where they were soundly trounced. Sewilling, the "Sam Crawford of the Feds," blew himself to a brace of homers and a triple against the Kawfeds yesterday.

BECKER REFUSED
WRIT OF ERROR

RANGELEY, Maine, July 12.—The application which was made yesterday to Justice Hughes of the supreme court of the United States, who is summering here, for a writ of error in the case of Lieut. Charles Becker, convicted of instigating the murder of Herman Rosenthal, New York gambler, was denied today on the ground there was no substantial federal question involved. Becker was condemned to die in Sing Sing the week of July 26.

CHICAGO STRIKELESS

CHICAGO, July 12.—Chicago was "strikeless" today for the first time in many months. Settlement of the carpenters-contractor deadlock Saturday, today sent nearly all of the 21,000 carpenters of Chicago back to work. With the carpenters back, it was confidently expected that the painters and decorators, lathers and plasterers would immediately patch up their differences.

Foreign Markets

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, July 12.—Price changes were few at the opening of the stock market today. There was little trading. An absence of selling pressure was taken to indicate that an unfavorable reply to Germany's note was discounted.

Stocks in general were strong at the end of the first hour. Trading picked up some. American coal products was a feature selling up to $170 1/2, a gain of 20 1/2.

The market was active in the second hour and prices showed increased strength. Industrials showed more improvement than railroad issues. General Electric advanced 3 1/4 to 165 1/4. New York Air Brake reached a new high, 100 1/4, selling up 10 1/4.

The market relapsed into complete dullness around 2 o'clock. General Motors sold up 10 at 168, a new high record, during the early afternoon.

INDIANS MILD IN COMPARISON WITH EUROPEANS NOW

Major Burke Who Knows
the Globe from Fifty Years of Travel Has Some Remarks Regarding War

Few men in their travels have had the opportunity in an itinerary of fifty years of visiting nearly every town
of importance—from Edmonton, Canada, San Diego and Vancouver
on the Pacific to the American continent, and on the European from St. Petersburg, Moscow, Belgrade, to Constantinople, the intervening
cities, and have visited points now
daily prominent in the two theater war zones; know the people, and to meet all the rulers and nearly all the leaders in the present gigantic struggle between allies and Germans;
familiar with the Belgian and French
theater the Polish, Galician, Servian, Italian fields of activity; have brought Cossacks from the Black sea
and through the Dardanelles—as has that most perennial visitor, Major John M. Burke, a man long identified with American Indian affairs and coadjutor with Colonel W. F.
Cody (now General Cody, Wyoming National guard), who is in the city.
Yesterday Major Burke was in a reminiscent mood of the different localities, finally remarking that "if civilization's European students develop any further endorsements by action on General Sherman's trite saying, 'War is hell,' I will soon believe that the American Indian has been maligned, and that, in comparison, the Sioux, the Apache, the Pawnee and the Comanche were conservative. Sunday school styles of graduates from a native Yale, Harvard or Stanford refinement when on the war path."

"Furthermore, I am convinced,"
he continued, "that one of the most humanizing methods of inculcating
peace and happiness in old and young, all races, creeds, classes and peoples, is man's primitive amusement Mecca, the circus. This was greatly impressed by the unexampled crowds that defied rain and drizzle last week in San Francisco. For ten performances the tents were packed,
and this season's splendidly balanced standards and startling novelties
in the Sells-Floto—Buffalo Bill circus—created such enthusiasm and aroused such joyous emotional appreciation as to rank it among the best medicinal curatives of worldly woes
and war worries."

"This year the management of the Sells-Floto-Buffalo Bill alliance has excelled all past efforts in providing an excellent arena show to make the best family circus in existence, in quantity, quality and family favoring minimum prices."

"The new, mysterious society
equestrienne, Rosa Rossland, will be a revelation, even to connoisseurs in the art of equestrianism."

"Buffalo Bill will supervise, and Frank Irwin of Irwin Brothers of Cheyenne frontier day fame, with Hugh Clark, champion belt holder, will lend ginger and pepper to the wild west numbers, in which they will lead a bevy of the most expert cowboys and ranch girls."

"San Francisco was aroused. I know this city will be pleased. See the parade and be inspired. See the show and be happy."

MILITIAMEN OFF FOR WAR GAMES

Companies B and M Leave
This Morning to Spend a Week Under Canvas at Camp Douglas

Equipped in heavy marching order
as if off for active service, Companies B and M of the "Shooting Third," with the local hospital corps,
left La Crosse on a Milwaukee road
special train shortly after 8 o'clock
this morning for Camp Douglas,
where for the next week they will play the war game.
At Sparta and Tomah Companies
K and L were expected to join the local militiamen. Camp was expected to be in order and ready to receive visitors by tomorrow.

FIRE SWEEPS SKYSCRAPER

CHICAGO, July 12.—Fire fanned
by a high wind off Lake Michigan and made more dangerous by a series of explosions today swept the Public Drug company quarters in the skyscraper near State and Madison streets early today. Several firemen were overcome.

DAINTY FOOD

Turns Pale Cheeks to Pink

Our best physicians of the present day seek to cure patients by the use of food and right living, rather than heavy drugs, and this is the true method, for only from food can the body be rebuilt.

Many people, after living on poorly selected or badly cooked food for a long time, and when their ailments
become chronic, expect the doctor,
with some magic potency, to instantly rebuild them.

This is not possible. The only true method is to turn as quickly as can be from poor food to good. A young lady in Ohio says:

"I was variously treated for my nerves, stomach, lungs, etc., but none of the treatments gave me relief.
"About a year ago when my appetite failed completely and I began to have sinking spells similar to fainting, I took all manner of tonics
and stimulants, but they were of no effect. I had been brought to quit drinking coffee and taking Postum
in its place and gradually began to get a little better."

"Someone suggested that if I found Postum so beneficial I had better use Grape-Nuts food, as they were both the children of one brain. I commenced on Grape-Nuts food for breakfast, having Postum with it. I found the food so dainty, delicious,
and appetizing that I always looked forward to breakfast with pleasure."

"Shortly after commencing this diet, the wretched pain in my side
was greatly relieved, and now, a year later, it has gone entirely, also the sinking spells; in fact, my pale cheeks have changed to pink, I have gained back more than the twenty pounds I lost, and am thoroughly
well in every way."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

NEW YORK, July 10.—On the other occasion when the New York Stock exchange was called upon to pass judgment on Berlin's response to America's protest against the German method of conducting war, it did so calmly, and without the least excitement. Stocks moved down a little, advanced, then seemed to be entirely through with discounting
the communication on which the peace of the nation was believed to hang. The market today, although it reversed its process of June 1

by advancing at the start, then declining, nevertheless was as calm an affair as if the summer half holiday had not unexpectedly brought on historic document on which immediate financial judgment was necessary.

A little more than 200,000 shares
were dealt in during the two hours
in which the market was open, and most of this was for professional account.

The steadiness with which the market closed a week of almost unbroken decline was undoubtedly due to the belief that the diplomatic relations of United States and Germany would be no further strained
by this latest communication from the kaiser's government, but at the same time there was a manifest desire in Wall street to await word from official Washington on this matter.

STATE WEDDINGS DROP OFF

MADISON, Wis., July 12.—Wisconsin weddings, under the eugen-ic marriage law, declined from 21, 052 in 1913, to 17,245 in 1914, a drop of nearly 20 per cent, according to figures compiled by Dr. C. A.
Harper, secretary of the state board of health. Dr. Harper is inclined to blame business conditions rather than the eugenics law for the decrease.

NEW GARAGE WILL GO UP ON FOURTH

Rybold and Weihaupt Have Outgrown Present Quarters and Will Build Modern Establishment

The Rybold & Weihaupt Auto Co.
have purchased property on South
Fourth street, next to the Moore
Laundry and contemplate building
a garage in the immediate future.

"We have outgrown our present quarters," said Mr. Weihaupt today.
"We have not sufficient display or shop room to take care of our rapidly growing business. And we have long realized that a more central location was needed. Definite plans have not been made, but Mr. Rybold and myself intending making a trip
in a few days to look over some of the larger garages to get ideas. We intend that our garage shall have every feature that a modern garage should have in order to give the best as well as the promptest service."

It is understood that the monetary consideration was $8,000.

CINCINNATI LIST OF TORNADO DEAD RAISED BY THREE

CINCINNATI, O., July 12.—The death list in the storm which swept Cincinnati Wednesday night was increased to thirty-five when the Ohio river gave up three of its victims.
The workmen are still digging in the ruins of demolished buildings.

ALIENS ARRESTED CROSSING BORDER

GRAND FORKS, N. D., July 12.—
Hundreds of aliens attempting to enter this country from Canada, in alleged violation of immigration laws,
are being arrested at the frontier, passengers arriving here said. The majority of foreigners entering from Canada are Germans and Austrians who declared their treatment in

PEACE MOVEMENT LAUNCHED

MINOT, N. D., July 12.—Ten-cents membership fee, and a determination to get every citizen of the United States as a member, is today
the aim of an international peace movement, launched here last night.
